The Next Congress.

The New York Tribune gives a table arranged to show as nearly as possible the actual sympathies of the members as between the two great parties dividing the Union. In it are placed Messes. Booth, of Connecticut, Julian, of Indiana, Preston King of New York, Wilmot of Pennsylvania, and Durkee of Wisconsin, (all distinctive Free-Soilers) in the Locofoco column, because they severally lean that way. Messrs. Mann, of Mass., Sprague of Michigan, Tuck of New Hampshire, Campbell and Hunter of Ohio, and Howe of Pennsylvania, are placed in the Whig column, because they were elected mainly by Whig votes, are in feeling and principle Whigs, and it is supposed will vote for a Whig Speaker whenever called upon to choose between a Whig and a Locofoco.
